

DEFECTS ARE FOUND AMONG THE CHILDREN

Nurse Makes Final Report of Work in Schools

908 ARE EXAMINED

Only Seven Normal Children Are Reported in County

The following is the final report made by Miss Antonette Ahlschier, who has spent eight weeks in the county examining the children under the auspices of the American Red Cross:

The itinerant nursing service was begun in Randall County, October 3. A meeting of the executive committee was held and definite plans were made in regard to the work to be done in Canyon and the county, which was school inspection.

Conferences were held with individual high school pupils in regard to personal hygiene. In Canyon public schools 646 pupils were examined; training school at the college, the first seven grades, 83; 179 pupils were inspected in the seven rural schools. We regret that time did not permit all rural schools to have the physical inspection.

Of the 899 examined, 892 were found with one or more defects. Three pupils were found to be normal in the ward school of Canyon and four in the training school.

608 were found who needed dental care. Perfect teeth are a heritage. When we complain about the lack of perfect teeth, we can take care of the kind of teeth we have, for well kept, clean teeth, regardless of size or color are good looking.

275 pupils with defective eyes, which includes growth on eyeballs, irritated lids, defective vision and crossed eyes. We can substitute cork arms and legs, but there is nothing that can replace the eye.

129 had defective hearing, which includes impacted ear wax. Defective hearing can sometimes be restored or relieved by medical attention; removal of tonsils and adenoids, also the removal of ear wax which may cause temporary deafness.

547 had nose and throat defects. Often parents wait too long to make this correction as defective throats and nasal passages do great damage to the child's body. Many go through life with heart, kidney and stomach trouble traceable to this defect.

15 with defective hearts which may be caused by poor nutrition, defective tonsils and adenoids, measles, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, flu, etc.

Three pupils need a careful chest examination. 472 with glandular defects, two thyroid cases are included in this number. 77 with defective posture which may result from malnutrition which causes fatigue, improper sitting, standing, defective vision, ill fitting clothing and shoes; 178 were ten per cent and more under weight and twenty per cent and more over weight.

Our President has said "Our responsibility for children is not based alone on human aspiration, but also upon the necessity to secure physical and moral education."

Some remedial work has been done, nine pairs of glasses have been fitted; a few have been to the dentist; others have been to see the family physician in regard to other defects.

117 parent consultations were held in Canyon schools and the rural schools.

In conclusion may I thank each and every one who contributed to the success of the service, especially the medical profession, the faculty of the different schools and the volunteer workers.

J. E. WINKELMAN HURT.

Word comes from Florence, Alabama, that J. E. Winkelman, former citizen of Canyon and father of Mrs. Clyde Warwick, was badly injured Thanksgiving when knocked over and trampled by a cow. Neighbors found Mr. Winkelman unconscious in the back yard of his home entangled in the chain attached to the cow. His arm was broken, nose broken and two teeth knocked out.

Eagles' Coach Recovers From Cuts With Razor

Local agitators anxious to stage a fight were responsible for the cutting of Coach L. T. Barksdale of the Canyon Eagles late Saturday night. He sustained severe gashes from a razor, cuts on his leg and arm. Called from his room at 12:00 o'clock at night by those who were anxious to stage a fight between the Coach and a local young man, the two met at a cafe where the fistfight ensued.

Held in jail until Monday, the young man wielding the razor paid a fine for fighting. Blame was laid by the officers upon those who had urged on the fight and who stood by during the fracas without offering to stop the fray. The Coach is rapidly recovering and will soon be at his work at the high school.

The fray was the result of three Canyon high school boys being dismissed from the Eagles high school team Wednesday afternoon before the Thanksgiving game when word was brought to the Coach that the three had broken training Saturday night and had violated their pledge to the Eagles team. The Eagles were badly defeated by the McLean high school on the following afternoon.

School and local authorities deplored the unfortunate circumstances, and condemned those who were responsible in keeping the ill feeling at white heat. All of the boys who were dismissed from the team called to see the Coach and expressed regret at the unfortunate affair.

Coach Barksdale was a star while a student at Baylor university and is serving his first year at Canyon, after a successful career at Floydada.

Rotary Members Told Meaning of The Organization

Rev. J. R. Hicks, pastor of the Baptist Church and former Rotarian, discussed with the Rotary Club Tuesday the meaning of Rotary so far as the individual member was concerned. "It is an honor to be a Rotarian," stated the pastor. "It is a challenge to the individual man to be his best—the best merchant, the best lawyer, the best teacher, the best preacher."

Rev. Hicks discussed the code of ethics of Rotary, and the inspiration that the code should give to the member. It should make every member struggle to match the ethics of the code. Man is the noblest creation of God, and being the highest he should strive to be the greatest. Education lifts men, but at the same time adds to his responsibilities to elevate those not so fortunate as himself, were among the high points of the discussion made by the speaker. Wes Kleinschmidt and J. W. Cox were in charge of the program.

Visitors of the club were Arthur Osgood, H. F. Lauder, M. R. Lindsay, G. O. Ricks, all of Amarillo.

$124.75 Collected in the Red Cross Annual Roll Call

Annual memberships from 103 persons and $124.75 in donations were reported Wednesday afternoon as the result of the annual Red Cross Roll Call. A meeting was held of the directors at which time a check was made of the results of the canvass.

Sufficient money was collected to pay for the services of the Red Cross nurse who spent eight weeks in the schools, but there will be no balance to carry on the work next year unless other donations are received. It was hoped that a larger response would be obtained during the Roll Call this year in order to guarantee the services of a nurse next year.

DR. J. A. HILL ENDS YEAR AS TEACHERS HEAD

Success Crowns Year's Work of State Teachers Association

W. T. EXES BANQUET

Canyon Schools Have a Fine Exhibit at Convention

Dr. J. A. Hill has completed his term as president of the Texas State Teachers Association, the program of the convention at Fort Worth, November 24, 25, 26, marking the climax of his year's work.

"A well integrated and adequately supported system of public education for Texas" was the general theme for the two and one-half day convention which was a notable success from the Thanksgiving worship service at which Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas delivered the sermon, to the final songs of the Burleigh Harmony Club of the Colored State Teachers Association which closed the Saturday afternoon session.

Dr. Hill was highly complimented upon the success of the convention and of his administration. Great numbers of teachers pronounced the program the best in the history of the organization. Dr. Hill attributes its success to the careful patient efforts of the committees of the Association.

There were about 6,000 teachers present, representing every section of the state and every division of Texas school system. Hundreds of the teachers who were in attendance are holding warrants, but they expressed the opinion that the State Teachers Association meeting is so important that it cannot be missed, no matter how hard the times may be.

Among those from Canyon who attended the meeting were Supt. Irby Carruth, Dean R. P. Jarrett, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Pierle, Mrs. Geraldine Green, Dr. Harris M. Cook, Miss Miltia Hill, Mrs. John Davis, Miss Darthula Walker, Mrs. T. V. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Savage, George Terry, J. L. Duflot, Frank R. Phillips, Miss Anna I. Hibbets, Mrs. L. M. Found Dead Tuesday

J. A. TATE
Animal and Hide Inspector of Randall County, was found dead by his car Tuesday afternoon.

First Aid Class Will Start Work at 7:00 Tonight

A class in First Aid for the men of the city will start tonight at 7:00 o'clock at the Canyon high school building. The class will be limited to 20 men, and the only charge is the purchase of the text book, 75 cents, which is authorized by the American Red Cross. Dr. R. A. Neblett will conduct the class.

The value of First Aid has been stressed by the Red Cross nurse during the past two months. With the ever increasing number of automobile and other kinds of accidents, business men are urged to take this course in order to know what to do in cases of emergency. The shock of an accident is usually the most dangerous, and these lessons are to show what to do in such cases. Getting the injured to a doctor with the least loss of blood is the most important of First Aid.

All men interested in the course are invited to be at the high school at 7:00 o'clock tonight.

MAY DRILL IN COUNTY.

Oil operators are planning a test well about 16 miles northeast of Canyon. It is stated in local circles interested in a test well in the county. Tiles of land in that vicinity are being perfected by those interested in the test. Just when the test will be made has not been revealed.

If this well is drilled, it will be the fourth test to be started in the county, the other three proving to be dry holes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lige Frieze were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pilley in Floydada Thursday.

J. A. Tate Died of Heart Disease Tuesday Afternoon

John Albert Tate, 62 years of age, was found dead Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock by the side of his car on the highway nine miles west of Canyon. Suffering from heart disease for several months, the exertion of changing a tire on his automobile overcame him, and he evidently died without a struggle. A truck driver discovered the body and called the ambulance of the Grigg-Thompson Funeral Home.

The funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. F. T. Charlton. Active pall bearers were R. E. Baird, Joe Gamble, Oscar Gamble, Clyde McElroy, George Jones, and John Wilson. Honorary pall bearers were C. R. Burrow, A. W. Hancock, S. M. Downing, Peter Meyers and Wilford Taylor.

Mr. Tate was born in Hunt county August 22, 1870. He has been a resident of Randall county for 31 years. He served for three terms as County and District Clerk, and has been Animal and Hide Inspector for several years. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Tate preceded him in death five years ago. He is survived by four children, Mrs. Louella Riemann of Roswell, C. R. Tate of Panhandle, P. R. Tate of Lubbock and Roy Tate of this city.

Federated Clubs Sponsor the Empty Stocking Crusade

The Empty Stocking Crusade will be conducted by the club women of Canyon again this year. The idea of the "Empty Stocking Crusade" was first carried out in Canyon by Mrs. John S. Humphreys several years ago. Mrs. Humphreys is asking for toys, donations of candies, nuts and fruits for this work.

It is the wish of Mrs. Humphreys that no child in Canyon will find an empty stocking Christmas morning, but that Old Santa will fill every stocking.

WARWICK IS NAMED

Wide Activity Shown in the Annual Report Made by Secretary

President—Clyde W. Warwick.
Vice President—S. H. Condon.
Directors—Harris M. Cook, Levi Cole, Dr. E. J. Cundiff, T. C. Thompson and J. W. Kleinschmidt.

Secretary Report

Fred E. Wortham, secretary, made a report of his activities, which covered the publicity sent out, consisting of 800 newspaper articles, and pictures printed in many newspapers and magazines. This publicity covered constructive information regarding the city, agriculture in the county, the college and the Palo Duro Park, which was started by the Chamber of Commerce two years ago, and which has attracted 80,000 visitors. Radio programs have been sponsored, 53 in number, over Amarillo stations, and wide responses have been received.

32,000 pounds of seed was sold at cost to the farmers, being double the amount of past years, while 700 pounds was furnished free to 4-H club boys.

The organization furnished offices and material without cost for the farmer loans this year, which amounted to $12,000.

The Randall County Dairy Herd Association, the Herd Improvement Association, the Santa Fe agricultural train, were all given full co-operation.

Co-operation was given the College and the high school, together with the interscholastic league meet of the county schools.

Support of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in regional affairs were sponsored, including tax measures and relief for unemployed.

Special days were observed the past year, including the 25th anniversary of the city, five trades days, a down town night, a political rally, merchants institute, and day at the Tri-State Fair.

Several grafting schemes were stopped in the city which saved the business houses considerable money.

2500 letters were mailed during the year giving information regarding the county, city and college.

In comparison with other Chambers of Commerce, the local institution is in good condition, and is functioning to accomplish a good program for the coming year.

Financial Report

Levi Cole, treasurer, reported on the finances of the year. The total receipts were $3,189.07, including $1,785.07 in dues.

Terrible Swedes to Face Buffalo Tall Men Dec. 21-22

The Terrible Swedes from Missouri will come to Canyon December 21-22 for two basketball games with the Tallest Team in America. The Swedes will probably be the toughest aggregation of basketball players that the Buffaloes have ever faced.

In 118 games last season, the Swedes won 110. The organization is independent and has traveled all over America playing basketball.

Coach S. D. Burton is putting his team through hard drill getting in shape for the opening of the season.

The Buff outfit promises to be even stronger than last year when the T. I. A. A. championship was captured again, and most of the games of the season won. Coach Burton will attend the meeting of coaches in Dallas next week and complete the schedule of college games.

Christmas Lights to be Erected on the Public Square

Bill Bryant, Manager of the Texas Utilities Co., and Fred E. Wortham have been designated by the Chamber of Commerce to erect the Christmas lights around the public square. The light wires were bought several years ago, and have been erected annually during the holiday season.

Business houses have been decorating the past week with holiday colors in preparation for the Christmas buying.

Mr. and Mrs. Upchurch were away from home Wednesday afternoon when the boys entered their home, taking canned goods, clothing, suit cases and jewelry. Much of the stolen goods was located at a farm house in the north part of the county and removed by the officers. Two of the boys are being held awaiting the action of the grand jury.

THE YOUNG OUTLAWS.

America is awaking to the startling fact that the outlaws of the present generation are mostly boys. Thousands of them are hardly out of their teens. The prisons of the country are being filled with boys for all manner of crimes. In olden times, crime was the part of the older and hardened types. Today it is different.

Al Capone made the startling statement recently that he had 300 young men in his organization, all making from $200 to $300 per week, and they would hardly be willing to accept jobs at $30, even if they could get them. The daring of the criminal life allures the reckless disposition of youth.

Lee Simmons, manager of the Texas Penitentiary System, speaking before the teachers of Texas at Fort Worth, decried the large number of youths who found their ways into the Texas penal system. He explained the situation by proclaiming that parents were shoving their responsibilities to the schools of the state.

The life of Pretty Boy Floyd, who escapes the law, is no doubt causing many a youth to aspire to be another of his type.

Here in the Panhandle, and all over the Southwest bank robbery follows bank robbery, all being performed by young men. The tragedy is that few of the robbers have been apprehended.

Local robberies, right here in Canyon, have been committed by youths most of whom have been able to evade the consequences of the law. To be a big "he-man" with a gun or knife in his belt, with full sway and contempt for law and order, is the role of too many young men in every community.

Now they say that liquor must return to America. This will bring back more recklessness on the part of youths, if they are able to procure liquor as they please, and under the guise of respectability and under the protection of the law.

The outlook is none too cheerful for those who believe in law and order, and that right living leads to better things in life.

"Pay or default," the edict of President Hoover and approved by Franklin D. Roosevelt, will please a majority of Americans. Time was that if Europe had given up the determination and preparations for another war, it probably would have been better for the United States to have forgiven Europe the war debts. But with every nation building up its arm forces rather than paying its debts, there is no excuse for them not paying Uncle Sam what they owe. Whether the conference between Hoover and Roosevelt was more than a friendly gesture, time alone will tell. But it shows a disposition on the part of Hoover to at least allow his successor to sit in on a most momentous pending problem; so far as Roosevelt is concerned, he could do nothing more than express his personal preference, since a session of congress must act upon the question before he takes office. Whatever the disposition of the war debts, Americans are united in the opinion that until Europe stops preparation for war they must pay their debts.

Jim Ferguson has rather startled the citizens of Texas by starting war on the highway commission six weeks before Mrs. Ferguson takes the oath of Governor, and Jim becomes chief advisor to the chief executive. It was expected that Jim would start war on the highway commission as soon as the two went back into the Governor's office, but this early start was not anticipated. From this distance, it looks like Ferguson had made a mistake. The Panhandle is to be the chief sufferer if the Ferguson plan goes through, but all sections of the state will suffer. Had Ferguson awaited the convening of the legislature, of which he hopes to have control, he could have accomplished the same purpose, without so much opposition on the part of the general public. Ferguson is the most cunning politician Texas has ever produced. While it looks as though he had made a serious mistake in starting this action, yet he is usually sure of his grounds.

Only 20 Shopping Days until Christmas. While it is not expected that this will be a Christmas of luxury, yet all should be remembered in some manner. Canyon business houses have thousands of useful gifts prepared for the Christmas shoppers. The business people of Canyon are responsible for the splendid paved streets, the schools of the town, even the bringing of the College here 23 years ago. They are contributing a large part of the upkeep of all these advantages which have been established for the benefit of the people of this community. In doing your Christmas buying, or buying at any time so far as that is concerned, gives your home merchants an opportunity to show their goods. Prices are as low in Canyon as you will find them any place. The quality is standard. Then, why not shop at home? There is no argument against this practice any time of the year.

The depression is about to end. With the opening of congress, all prohibition laws will be repealed—according to the wets—America will become dripping wet, everyone will get gloriously drunk, the treasury will be overflowing with money, and everything will be grand and glorious—all because prohibition has been repealed. The wets have assumed a most absurd position. Taking money away from the people for liquor when they need bread will never solve the money condition. Yet the wets continue to kid themselves, and a lot of other people who have not thought the thing through. Sobriety will be more apt to return prosperity than will drunkenness, as everyone who knows anything about the curses of liquor realizes.

Governor Sterling indicated Saturday that he would again veto the bill exempting farmers from paying a chauffeurs' license. This time he attributes the veto to having been in an auto wreck last week when a drunken or careless driver forced the car in which he was riding into the ditch. The Governor is of the opinion that every driver should be required to have a chauffeurs' license. His theory has been proven in states with compulsory driver's license which require an examination. However, the truck chauffeur's license in Texas requires no examination, and anyone may operate a truck by payment of $3.00 annually.

Hitler has been given a chance at the German government, but could not meet the requirements imposed by President Von Hindenburg. The world may be thankful that a man of Von Hindenburg's type is at the head of the German government. Although of the war lord type, he has shown unusual judgment and patriotism, working for the good of the German republic.

From 100 to 200 persons are applying daily to the Fergusons for jobs; while in Amarillo, Marvin Jones received fully that number daily who sought federal jobs under the Democratic administration. Fully one-half of the people of America would like to get on some government job during these strenuous times. No wonder the taxpayers are demanding relief.

Washington society is up in arms. Mr. and Mrs. John Garner have let it be known that they will accept invitations only to diplomatic affairs when he becomes Vice President. It's too bad we shall not see another Dolly-Gans-Alice Longworth feud this winter. Washington is certainly a dull place.

Moon Was 'Born' of Earth Where Pacific Now Stands, Scientist Claims

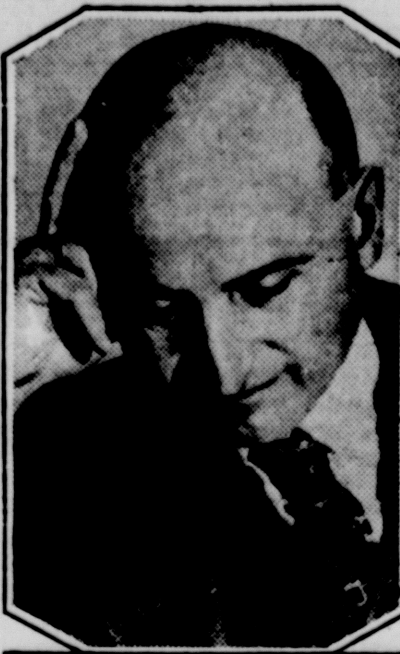

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Millions of years ago, from a mixture of heat and molten rock, churned and twisted by furious storms and quakes which would rock and sway whole continents if they were repeated today, the moon was "born" of the earth.

Adding scientific support to the poet who first referred to "Mother Earth," this vivid picture is painted by Dr. Beno Gutenberg, geophysicist of the California Institute of Technology, who is studying earthquakes at the Carnegie Seismological laboratory here.

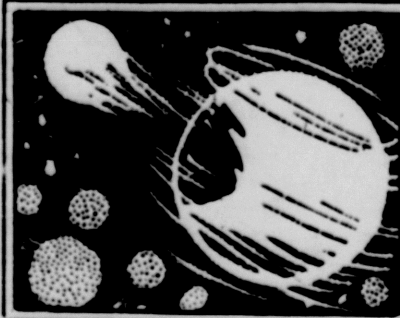

Dr. Gutenberg declares he has found new evidence to support the theory that millions of years ago the moon was "born" of the earth in a gigantic cataclysm, which has left the basin of the Pacific ocean as a scar.

At the height of the earth's tremendous labors, according to the savant's theory, a tremendous mass of the "upper crust" of the earth broke loose and went flying end over end into space. The detached mass assumed a spherical shape and, in cooling, became the moon, Dr. Gutenberg believes.

The earth, with the gash in its side, cooled also, but the gash remained. In time, this deep scar, which is roughly 8000 miles in diameter, was filled with water and is known today as the Pacific ocean, the scientist explains.

Dr. Beno Gutenberg

"While many scientists declare there is only 3 per cent probability that the moon was torn from the structure of the earth, I have come to believe the theory is more than 50 per cent probable," Dr. Gutenberg says.

"Studies of earthquakes," he explains, "are slowly convincing us that there are two types of shocks. The shallow shocks are most common; but the other type, deep shocks that appear to come from 300 to 400 miles down in the earth, are recognized."

"Most of these come from a region along the Pacific ocean in the vicinity of Japan. They seem to have a different cause from the shallow quakes, which are believed to be caused by a slipping of masses of the crust, or 'faulting,' as geologists call this phenomena."

"The tremors which rock the earthquake belt running around the entire mountain-girdled Pacific ocean," Dr. Gutenberg continued, "may be the still throbbing pains due to the cosmic scar caused by the casting off of the moon."

"And is it not significant that the bed of the Pacific ocean is basaltic, and not granitic? May this not mean that the granitic crust which once covered the region of the Pacific was thrown off and is now the moon?"

UVALDE, Texas.—Realizing the success of this year's sale of Christmas Seals is more imperative, perhaps, than it has ever been before, Vice-President-elect John N. Garner opened the 26th annual campaign in Texas by making the first purchase, with his nine-year-old granddaughter, Genevieve Garner, having the honor of making the first sale.

Relative to this important work, Mr. Garner had this to say in part: "Knowing the great work done by the tuberculosis organizations of the United States during the past quarter of a century, through whose efforts the saving of thousands of lives a year is accomplished, I urge every citizen to make his contribution, large or small, through the purchase of Christmas Seals. I know of no more worthy cause than the support of the annual Seal Sale, through which the work of these organizations is made possible."

The records of the Texas Tuberculosis Association show that Mr. Garner has purchased Christmas Seals annually for many years.

as a barrier to progress that would otherwise be achieved.

In depressed times, it is one of the greatest obstacles we must hurdle in the work of recovery—an obstacle creating more unemployment, more mortgage foreclosures, more business failures, a deeper depression.

Soon Congress will again convene. It will have before it many bills, most of which will deal with the problems of depression. It will have as its duty the advancement of a recovery which has already started. There is no way it could be of greater service to us all than to reduce the cost of government.

It can do that without in the least harming the real, the necessary functions of government. It can eliminate useless and duplicating bureaus, archaic commissions, purposeless departments with departments. It can cut millions from the budget. Doing that would not only help relieve the tax burden—it would set a sorely-needed example to states and municipalities, which cost us a great deal more than does the government at Washington.

Efficiency, economy, service—those are the watchwords of progressive businesses now. They must likewise be the watchword of government, in all its branches.

BACK TO WORK

The tumult and the shouting have died. The speeches have all been made. The votes have been counted.

The campaign is history, and it's time to go back to work.

The great problems of today are not political problems. They are economic, financial, social. They are completely non-partisan. All any president can do to solve them is to give his best efforts, according to his lights, to assist the people with the power of government. Legislation will be passed, official suggestions will be offered—but no matter how good they are, they will be worthless unless the people stand shoulder to shoulder and work for their own salvation.

Almost all observers agree that the bottom of the depression has been touched. The work of restoration has begun. It will be a long, and arduous work, requiring the utmost each of us can give. Partisanship must be forgotten. Labels must be forgotten. Never in the history of the country has non-political leadership, and non-political thought been so essential to the future.

So—back to work.

HAS THE COST OF

ELECTRICITY

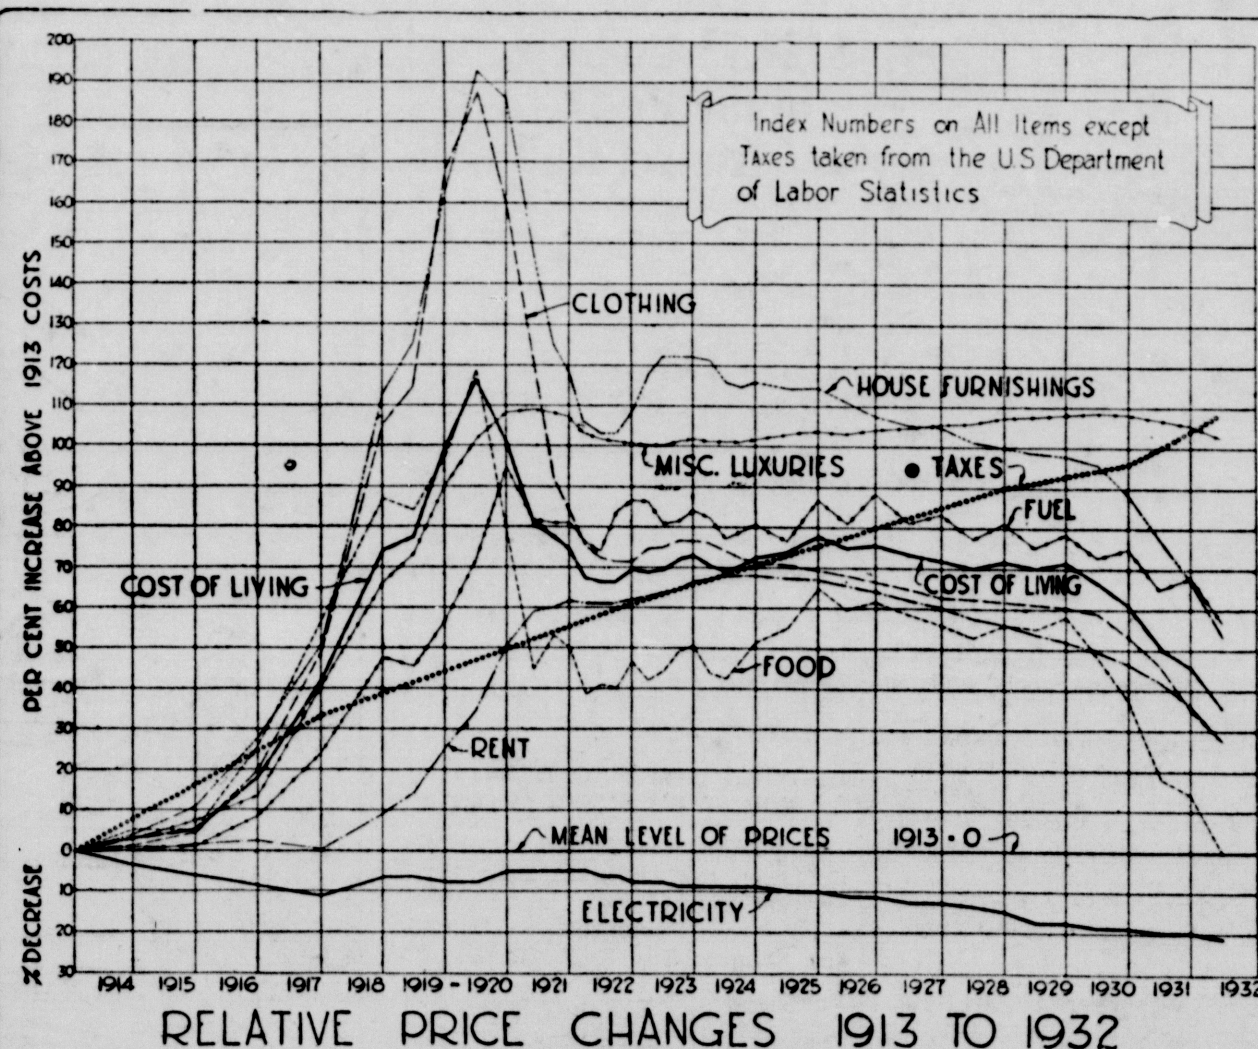

DECREASED TO ITS PRE-WAR LEVEL?

The answer iss "YES—and even lower than that."

The following graph, except for the item of taxes, is prepared from records of the U. S. Department of Labor statics and is illuminating as to the relative price changes from 1913 to 1932.

It shows that electricity is the only commodity in the family budget which has continued to stay at a cost per unit below 1913 level and that the cost of electricity now is 21 per cent below its 1913 level while other household expenses range from their 1913 level to a much higher value. This reduction in the cost of electric service was made possible through the construction of super power plants at strategic points and the interconnecting of communities by transmission lines. Such construction called for large investments of capital and furnished labor to countless thousands of people.

In many communities the decline in the cost of Electric service since 1913 has been in excess of 21 per cent average. In our local community the average cost of electricity has been reduced 38 per cent to 40 per cent since 1913.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

QUITTING BUSINESS!

Seven years ago we entered business 'mid the flurry of prosperity. People were proud of our business. It was the symbol of Quality, Courtesy and Service. Then the reaction set in. One by one business beckoned to the forces of readjustment.

We are going out as we came in . . . thru Quality, Courtesy and Service. We are closing out the largest stock of high grade Furniture and Draperies west of Fort Worth, at drastic price reductions. A large part is new merchandise bought for the fall trade. This is not a sensational sale . . . merely yielding to the reconstructing forces of sound, economic business principles.

We suggest furniture for Christmas. It's useful and beautiful. Free Storage. Prices are cash, or terms with carrying charge.

This lamb followed his master to the hospital, which wasn't against the rule—because it helped him to recover. Peter Motta, above, of Woodland, Calif., worked so hard preparing his prize lamb for a San Francisco livestock show that he caught pneumonia, and was taken to the hospital. While he was there, his lamb won the grand prize of the show. When Peter learned of it, his recovery was rapid.

Fur-Trimmed Coats Popular This Year

UNUSUAL COLLAR, YOKE OR SLEEVE EFFECTS, AND GRAY, BLACK AND RED SHADES, ARE SEASON'S VOGUE

BY HARRIET

CLOTH coats, with fur trim, are having as big a vogue this year as fur coats.

If you are wondering what kind of fur to have your coat trimmed with this year, the answer is almost any kind. It is the way fur is used that makes it smart, rather than the kind, though the flat furs, astrakhan, beaver, nutria, krimmer, caracul, broadtail and the like are more popular than long furred skins. Of course some women always like and want fox and other long-haired furs. There is no dearth of these, in the fashionable world. So you really can indulge your fancy!

Broadly speaking, it is smarter to have your fur fashion an unusual collar, make a whole yoke, cap the tops of the sleeves and make lapels, fashion a stock collar or a youthful rolled one or in some way do something new and effective. Having fur edges on cape effects or cape sleeves or a cape scarf is often the last word and particularly becoming to small women and to tall, slender ones.

Gray coats have appeared in greater numbers this winter than any year for two decades. Black is always a good choice. If you have only one. There are innumerable red ones, in every tone from rust to burgundy. Browns are not in such abundance and therefore you may want one. There are many olive greens and some bluish greens and even blue comes out onto the street as winter color this year.

If you put something very new and utterly charming, there is a new Maggy Rouff model that is strictly a dress coat. It is black velvet, the kind you'd wear to parties. It has something brand new in its cape movement, which is all outlined in gray astrakhan. Warm, beautiful, this coat is a lady-garment that every well-dressed woman will look at twice.

Typical of the kind of coat every youthful person would like to own is a fitted gray wool made by Jenny. It is the new slate-gray that can be combined so well with dresses of dashing color. It has a belt across the front that fastens with a silver double ring buckle. And it has gray astrakhan cuffs and a high, rolled collar that fastens snugly around the throat.

There is a matching hat for this coat, made of fine felt of the slate-gray and it has a Russian manner of applying the astrakhan to it, topped with the perst of little Paris bows.

For a coat that uses long fur to give it dash, nothing could be smarter than Worth's brown one that uses aubergine wool fabric, an especially finely woven, warm wool. The sleeves hold the interest.

They have drop shoulders, with tucks at the joining and bands of lynx around here. The rest of the sleeves are tight fitting and long and sleek.

The coat itself fits neatly but is not too form-fitting. The collar has a tiny roll to it that is very smart, particularly on an older woman. The tuck of the sleeve is repeated with great emphasis around the bottom of the skirt, giving it a brand new look that is very smart. There is a muff of the lynx and to women who like muffs, this return of such vanities affords great pleasure.

SEVEN WAYS TO REDUCE FARM TAXES

America's farmers must be aided by reduced taxation to carry on while they await improvement in the prices of their products. It is also important that taxes be permanently lowered so that, when agricultural prices do improve, farmers may enjoy their rightful share of a restored prosperity.

Seven specific suggestions are suggested. These include the immediate reduction of salaries and wages of all public servants; abandonment of unessential boards, bureau, commissions and departments in federal, state and local governments; reorganization of county government leading to reduction in number; systematization and centralization of all governmental activities, withdrawal of government from functions which belong essentially to private business; elimination of unnecessary personnel on public pay roll and immediate scaling-down, in every possible way the cost of government.

TWO ATTITUDES

The transport problem is usually viewed from two distinct attitudes. One is that the railroads are being unfairly treated and that all common carriers should be regulated as much alike as is feasible. The other is that the railroads are a dying industry and that there is no point in cramping the style of progress by extending strict regulation to their competitors.

To many uninformed or unthinking persons, this last argument is a persuasive one. We see trucks carrying merchandise and freight where, a few years ago, the rails were supreme. We see buses ply the highways loaded with passengers that once traveled by railroad. It's easy to believe the "dying industry" argument.

The figures, however, paint a different story. The railroads still carry almost all the heavy tonnage of the country. They still move about 75 per cent of all freight tonnage. No other medium has arisen that shows any sign of being able to take their place, particularly on long hauls.

The problem, then, resolves into this: We must have a transport policy that recognizes conditions as they are—not as they were or may be. There is a place for trucks, for pipe lines, for airplanes, for waterways—but that doesn't mean that the railroads have been replaced. The rails are and will continue to be the backbone of the nation's transport. That being true, any sound program must guarantee them a fair deal and allocate to each carrier its most useful place in the transport scheme.

More than one family around here would be far better off today if they had courage enough a few years ago to say, "We can't afford it."

Financial writers say money is still plentiful in spots. But what people want to know is when it's going to break out all over.

One Debate Team Wins Over Lubbock

Four debate teams from Lubbock High School met four Canyon teams in a verbal conflict Wednesday, Nov. 23 at Canyon High School. Francis Simmons, Marguerite Spencer, Ralph Bumpass, and Russell Wilkerson from Lubbock upheld the affirmative against Maxine Middleton, Kathryn Robinson, Marvin Callihan, and Joe Collins.

Robbie Lee Foster, Bobbie Joe Cheyne, Ogden Stroud, and Robert Black of Canyon upheld the affirmative against Pauline Hawthorne, Wildring B. Sherrod, Donald Henry and Alton Hankins of Lubbock.

The question for discussion was, "Resolved, that the income tax should be adopted in Texas."

Ogden Stroud and Robert Black won a victory over their opponents, Donald Henry and Alton Hankins. The Lubbock teams won the other three debates.

The four Lubbock teams were served a buffet luncheon in the home economics room before the debates were held. The debaters and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reid spent the night in Canyon with members of the debate club and then went to Amarillo to see the Sandie vs. Westerner game.

Aubrey Fox, who is the head of the Science Department of Canyon High School, graduated from Simmons University in 1926. Having finished college, Mr. Fox became the principal of the grade school at Northland in 1926-27. The following year, he became the principal of Toyah High School. In 1928, he was a radio salesman. Seven Faculty Members Attend Teachers Meet

The Canyon Schools were well represented Nov. 24-26, at the State Teachers' Meet in Fort Worth.

Exhibits from all departments were prepared, including many interesting posters, free hand drawings, mountings, notebooks, themes and charts.

Those who went from the Public Schools were Mrs. C. E. Strain, Mrs. Cousins, Miss Tharp, Miss Smith, Mr. Terry, Mr. Carruth, and Mrs. J. M. Davis, who read a paper on remedial work in the elementary school. Many favorable comments were made and letters were received by Mrs. Davis asking for further information about the work.

Those who attended feel that the meeting was well worth the expense and time spent.

The Value of Publicity to the School System

By MRS. C. E. STRAIN

Some one has said "The school teacher writes the insurance policy of democracy." Supt. Bogan of Chicago says the teachers of the nation have held sacred this trust placed upon them by the builders of the nation but the time has now come when they should pay less attention to methods and more to the study of economics. He fears the schools are in danger of destruction at the hands of those to whom the nation has looked for financial leadership. The school involves intimately the entire life of the community and is therefore deeply affected by the disorganization of finance and industry.

William Trufant Foster, economist of Boston says the forces which have mismanaged credit and currency now tell us that education must be mismanaged too. Having succeeded in forcing the liquidation of business they are trying to force the liquidation of intelligence. Pressure is brought to bear in order that budgets are reduced at a time when the situation calls for more and better education, teaching staffs are reduced, classes are increased beyond the point where the individual pupil can be given effective service, subjects have to be dropped when there is an imperative need for a richer curriculum, health service is cut down when economic conditions have greatly increased the need for a better and broader health program, standards of living for teachers must be reduced, school administrators are overburdened, many schools are closed. In fact it seems that some of the very practices which have wrecked industry are being forced upon the schools.

Aaron Saprio, attorney of New York, says, "The hope of America in this crisis is the increased maintenance for education. There is no price too high to pay for education, no penalty too great to pay for ignorance."

No doubt the depression has brought to the school the realization of greater tasks to be undertaken. In order to reduce economic congestion there must be a diffusion of sound economic education among the people. This economic adjustment will require a new leadership which must be trained in our schools and colleges. This realization brings an added obligation to the educators to safeguard the schools of the nation.

In most matters public opinion controls in this country and the time seems opportune to acquaint the public with the facts concerning education. America has never been thoroughly sold on education. We do not believe in it strongly enough to spend money for adequate maintenance. England is more thoroughly sold on education than we, hence it has one of the most powerful organizations of teachers in the world. She pays not only for school upkeep out of the public treasury, but also for food and clothes for those whose parents are not able otherwise to keep them in school.

In order then that we may get enacted the legislation needed to adequately provide for the maintenance of the type of school that the situation demands, we must exalt education in the minds of the people. Parents should be shown that any reduction of efficiency in the schools means a loss to their own children. Let us make a practice of keeping the aims, practices, and achievements of the schools constantly before the public. George Washington said it was essential that public opinion should be enlightened. If we can help the public to understand the crucial importance of education, its relatively low cost, and its dynamic philosophy of a better life for the masses, then pressure will be

McLean Wins Over Canyon Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day was a sad day for Canyon High School, because her Eagles lost the district grid title to the powerful McLean Tigers, 52 to 0.

Tyson Cox, burly Eagle guard, was the Eagle mainstay, without the services of Thomas, regular quarterback. Tyson's punting was far superior to that of Tolliver's or Back's of McLean. Tyson was the defensive star of the game.

Ellison, Tiger guard was second only to Tyson in defensive play. L. Christian and Crockett were the two boys who ran wild through and around the Eagles. McCarty, Tiger center, was responsible for two Tiger counters in the third quarter when he intercepted two Eagle passes and raced 30 yards for a touchdown on both occasions.

This game brought to a close the Eagles' 1932 grid season, but next Friday at Pampa, McLean will meet the powerful Spearman Lynx, to decide the Bi-District Championship.

"Come on, Tigers, we are behind you!"

brought to bear upon our law making bodies and ways and means will be found to provide sufficient funds to safeguard public education against retrenchment.

The majority of legislators want to comply with all reasonable demands of their constituents and when they see the people of their district are overwhelmingly in favor of a proposition and can intelligently defend same, they are pretty sure to enact the legislation requested. All of our recent school legislation has come that way and the experience of our State Teachers' Association indicates that this is probably the best way to get desired legislation enacted.

Then let us give the facts to the public in an intelligent, open, and unselfish manner. Show what other states are doing for their schools, what the nation as a whole is doing for education; point out the inconsistency of a nation whose annual incomes are $90,000,000,000, annual savings $30,000,000,000, life insurance premiums $27,000,000,000; real estate $40,000,000,000, candy, ice cream and tobacco bill $48,000,000,000; spending for education only $2,000,000,000. When statistics show that out of the county's dollar, twenty-four and one half cents go for the necessities of life, twenty-two cents for luxuries, one and one-half cent for education, and three fourths of a cent for religion the public can hardly fail to see that we are a long way from a breakdown in government due to the cost of education and religion.

If the people realize "there is a force of greed and avarice that is striving to limit our schools and the opportunities of the underprivileged classes" they will welcome the chance to fight for public education and vote to preserve for their children the legacy of democracy.

This concerted action on the part of the common people of America would place the schools and the teaching profession on a plane never before known. A way will be found to "balance the revenue" so that school officials will not find it so hard to "balance the budget." Educators will have time to work on a constructive reorganization program to meet the changed conditions. Instead of hearing so much about cutting out the "fads and frills" the curriculum could be broadened and enriched to meet the needs of the individual child. Up to date and adequate equipment in all departments will be available and an adequate force of professionally trained teachers can be provided when the revenue is balanced. It will no doubt bring about higher standards thus insuring better teachers, teachers both men and women who have had specific training for the field in which they are to work. More time can be given to vocational guidance, character and health education, cultural service including the fundamentals, art, music, and literature. There must be a program of guidance which will be adequate to take care of the mental, moral, social and physical needs of adolescents. In short, we can approach the up to date school that society demands.

Girls Begin Basketball Practice

Monday afternoon the gym was crowded with girls who were reporting for basketball practice. Miss Smith, the coach, was well pleased with the group and with the workout Tuesday. With several weeks of hard practice she expects to handle the Happy Jacks. The prospects for a strong team are good since nearly all of the girls who lettered last year are back. Mickey Schmitz looks like she will be a dandy forward. Dora Mae Plaster and Velma Crawford are good bids for the centers. Athalia Overton, a letterman from White Deer, is a good prospect for either forward or jump. Greenfield and Porter will probably guard; however, the work of Vera Coger will be missed. About thirty other girls have reported. With the support of the whole high school the girls expect to accomplish something.

The theme of the chapel program, Nov. 22, 1932, was Thanksgiving. Leonard Brasuel, president of the Student Association, took charge of the program.

"PREACHY" EDITORIALS
People usually don't enjoy "preachy" editorials. You don't, nor do I, although the hardest thing I know is writing an editorial that is not preachy.

Did you ever stop to think just what the editor has to endure before his editorial is ready to publish? He finds a subject that he wishes to write on and sits down to write it. He must first think, will it be interesting to my public? Will they take offense? Will it be too preachy? Will I put over my point?

With these thoughts in mind the editor painfully and carefully writes the article, trying not to preach. When he has finished he leans back in his chair, and reads it, looking more disgusted every minute. He then starts all over again, using the good parts of his first draft and working in new ideas.

Finally, after copying and re-copying the article at least six times, the editor either satisfies himself or gives up in disgust.

When the editorial is published, more than likely the statement, "Why do they always write 'preachy' editorials?" will be made.

W. T. Ex-Students Meet at a Breakfast

Following a custom of several years, the ex-students and faculty of the West Texas State Teachers College met together for breakfast on the second day of the convention. Law Sone, Dean of Texas Woman's College, and a graduate of this college, made the arrangements for the breakfast, and Supt. Irby Carruth who is president of the ex-students association, presided.

There were 82 present at the breakfast, representing almost every class since 1910. Among those who will be remembered by Canyon citizens were Mr. and Mrs. O.

B. Stafford of the public health department of Fort Worth, as well as many others.

It is planned to have a breakfast at the convention next year. Most of those who went to Fort Worth returned Sunday, a few arriving in Canyon on Monday. Canyon probably had a larger attendance than any town of its size in the entire state.

Public School Exhibit

Canyon was one of the small number of cities which had an exhibit of the work of its school children at the convention. The exhibit from Canyon was well planned and skillfully arranged. Many favorable comments were made concerning it. The patrons of the Canyon schools would have been much pleased if they could have seen the exhibit from the local school was the equal in quality of that of any school, regardless of its size. Observers said that the Canyon teachers should be congratulated upon their display.

The exhibit represented only the daily work of the pupils.

The College did not have an exhibit, it having been decided that it was impracticable this time, since very few colleges were using space.

Dedicate Memorial to Wright Brothers

T-Anchor Boys Build Home Top of Milk House

Another eyeopener for those who believe that college boys cannot successfully tackle practical projects has been completed at the Teachers College farm on the T-Anchor ranch. This is the building of a well-planned two-room apartment on the top of the milk house.

This building was first constructed a single story in height, but with the foundation heavy enough to support a second story when it should be needed.

This fall the second story, of Dutch Colonial outline, was added the carpentry squad of the farm doing most of the work; this squad is directed by Charles Jennings, a student from Tulsa.

The new quarters contains a bed room, having four windows and three exposures. The room, which is equipped with two closets, is of ample size for the four boys who sleep in it. Adjoining it is a living room, warm and well lighted and containing a large closet. Its furnishings include a davenport so that the boys can entertain their occasional over-night guests.

Aubrey Jones of Waco, the student to whom the general management of the farm is entrusted, states that the new rooms are much more convenient for the dairy squad, since they have only to go down stairs to be at their place of work. This squad has five members at the present time, but usually there are only four. The boys in the squad are Arlin Hartzog and Bob Williams of Farwell, Gerald Roberts of Goodlett, Arlin Ream of Shamrock and Russell Blanton of Claude. They are responsible for the housekeeping in their quarters as well as for the conduct of the dairy.

Prof. T. M. Moore of the agriculture department is faculty overseer of the farm and spends a part of every day there. The farm is used as a laboratory for the students of agriculture, and all boys who work there are majoring in this subject under the direction of Professor Frank R. Phillips.

Besides first hand farm experience the 27 men who now live on the farm are enabled to attend college for much less money than would otherwise be possible. The value of the farm is being enhanced each year as well as its expense to the State.

E. L. Prichard Is Moved From City to Amarillo

E. L. (Shorty) Prichard has been moved from the cashier position at the local Santa Fe freight office to a like position in Amarillo. The local position was consolidated with that of first truck operator, held by W. P. Sharnan. Robert C. Crawford becomes apprentice operator under R. McGee.

Shorty Prichard has been with the local depot for 21 years. He has only four men as seniors in this division, one of whom is his brother, Elmer, who is located at Canadian.

The move was made by the Santa Fe as one of economy in the local office.

The people of Canyon regret that the Prichard family is leaving the city.

COLOSSAL TEXAS CAVERN OPENS THANKSGIVING DAY

Deep down in the depths of the earth water fashioned a great cave at Burnet, Texas. It has been explored by Dr. Frank E. Nicholson, famous as the explorer of Carlsbad, Longhorn Cavern State Park was opened Thanksgiving day. Here are some excellent cave photos. Lower left is Dr. Nicholson and his wife, Peggy, sitting on the shores of a crystal clear underground lake. In the center Dr. Nicholson hangs on the ledge-like wall in an immense room. Three
